

Hard to remember

Brieve Morison

Was it in the summer or was it in the spring
When whoever it was betrayed the trust
You thought your love would bring
Was it in the dance hall at midnight's magic hour
When people started growing teeth
Your body to devour
It's so hard to remember
It's so hard to recall
That moment of time
When you first fall
It's so hard to remember who opened the door
To the mysteries of life and all

Was it in the school that time you felt so all alone
Or was it more than a doorstep kiss
The night he walked you home
Did you wait so long
Outside the cinema door
On a cold October evening
When October rains did pour
Chorus

Did you have ambition
Disillusioned by some cynic
Who told you that you had no chance
You would never win it
So stood up laid up
Angry mad though
You never would admit it
You carry your own candle
But have you ever lit it
Chorus
