

If you ever asked Brieve Morison

Summer's surely gone
And winter shortens on
And the night makes frost of the dew though my eyes look at the door
And my bags packed on the floor
I would never leave without you

No I'd never try to make a move
Reckless independence just to prove
You need no proof of what's natural and true
And I never would say yes
If it was just a guess
And I'd never leave without you

If you want me I will come
If there's something you want done
Or something that you want to share
Well it may be a kiss
Or a sound that I have missed
Or simply just to breathe in the same air

With you the day goes soon
Shadows race across the room
Til they're gone and time is just a guess
I never want to go away
You know I'd love to stay
And if you ever asked I'd say yes
If you ever asked me I'd say yes
I'd say yes
